Underneath a crescent night time I've dreamt a dream like a reoccurring summer I want to revisit over and over it's a place a moment of moments where I am surrounded by a sea of flashing purple with chanting, singing and enthusiastic hand movements – experiencing one night of joy and entangled happiness that creates a web of memories it lies somewhere in an ocean of seven seas where the waves all move in harmony – I follow,

repeat,
and yearn for the harmonious comfort and happiness it all brings a friendly intellectual chorus, I long to be a part of but for now

I am a voice on my own

and if this dream is meant to stay a dream so be it for I won't dare to forget when the time comes for the seven seas of the ocean to depart as one, and, if I never experience this harmonious seven live, just know, I will surely be there distances away; repeating in my intellectual tune.

Artist Statement

I wrote this poem really about wanting to be able to go somewhere but also realizing that I may not always get to go everywhere and I realize it is okay. In this poem, I chose about wanting to be able to experience a Bangtan concert and realize I may not be able to go due to a number of factors such as being able to secure a ticket or being unable to travel due to complications and issues and such. However, as we progress further into the poem, I talked about being okay if not being able to experience this concert as I will be listening to their music via other alternatives and cheering from wherever I am, whether it be from my bedroom or such.
